The Lucy Mary Kellogg (LMK) award was established in 1992 by the Michigan Genealogical Council (MGC) to honor Lucy Mary Kellogg, an eminent Michigan genealogist, as the founding member. Her accomplishments on the state and national levels were recognized in 1991 as the first woman and the first from the Midwest area to be named to the National Genealogy Hall of Fame.

To be nominated for this award a candidate must be a member in good standing of a member society of the MGC, resided in the state of Michigan for a minimum of seven years and must have met four or more of the following criteria:

1. furthered the aims and the accomplishments of MGC
2. served in a position of leadership in a member society of the MGC.
3. been involved in a major research project.
4. authored or contributed to a notable publication.
5. made a significant contribution to the genealogical or historical benefit of the local community.
6. made a significant contribution to the Michigan community.
7. furthered the knowledge of genealogy through educational practices.

The LMK award consists of a certificate and $75.00 each in the recipient's name to the Archives of Michigan, and a library or genealogical society of their choice.

The recipient, selected by an anonymous jury of three judges, will receive the award at the annual MGC Seminar or fall meeting.

The name of a candidate may be resubmitted, however, the award may be received by an individual only once. Current officers of the executive board of MGC are not eligible for nomination.

TO NOMINATE A CANDIDATE:

1. complete the nomination form.
2. submit a typewritten letter of 500 words or less stating the qualifications of the candidate. Include support materials such as publications.
3. encourage individuals and groups to send letters of support for the candidate.

Mail entries together with support letters to arrive by May 31st to:

Michigan Genealogical Society
